Assignment

A study of Hispanic culture in your Spanish 102 class reveals that Spanish is the local language of the island paradise of Costa Rica. Recalling your recent obsession with the first 'Survivor' edition, you contrive that you could conceivably perfect your Spanish on the beach. In order to convince your parents (and your Spanish teacher!) that Costa Rica is right for you, you know that you are going to have to do some research.

Objective

On Studyabroad.com, research Spanish Language courses in Costa Rica and Costa Rican culture.

Fact sheet items

Be sure to address the following:

Where can I study Spanish in Costa Rica?

How long are Spanish Language courses in Costa Rica? What program length is of interest to me?

Do any programs offer optional excursions for travel?

Research local information: Capital, currency, government, weather, major cultural sights, and national holidays.

What some things that I would like to see/experience while in Costa Rica?

What do I expect to gain from this program that will benefit my future?
